

Open Water Diver Course

The PADI Open Water Diver Course is the first step in the adventure of discovering a new world below the surface. Becoming a certified diver will open up new opportunities for fun, adventure and excitement. Chris Miller, Jeff Backes, Matt Baughman, and Bob Anderson are PADI (Professional Association of Diving Instructors) certified instructors. They will guide you through the world's most popular training system. The performance-based program is focused on using the highest quality of teaching. Let SCUBA TOO make this unique form of recreation a never-ending source of enjoyment for you!

There are two parts to the PADI Open Water Diver Course. Part one will focus on learning in the classroom and in the pool. PADI has produced educational materials that will become a part of your diving library for years to come. The Open Water Manual provides you with information to review before class begins. Either the PADI Open Water Diver Video or DVD may supplement this for PC or MAC. In the classroom you will participate in discussions and knowledge reviews. Our instructors guide your learning using the PADI modular lesson guide. In the pool, you will put into action the skills needed to master scuba diving while under the direct supervision of a certified instructor.

Part two is the Open Water Training Dives. Four dives will apply the skills acquired in the pool to the open water environment. The dives take place in Glennies Pond, a local quarry at Miller Fence & Flag or they can be scheduled with dive travel to the Caribbean. At completion of the course, you will receive a PADI Certification Card (C-card), the mark of a certified diver who has completed a highly respected course of training. The C-card is required to rent scuba equipment or to obtain air fills around the world.

You have two options for training: take part one of the course with knowledge reviews and pools skills in one to two weekends. The cost is only $275.00. The second option is to take both parts to complete the PADI Open Water Diver Course in two to three weekends for only $475.00.

The course fee of $475.00 includes:

- All instruction and pool fees
- Equipment rentals
- Textbook and Dive Tables
- Adventure 1000 Log Book
- Instructional Materials
- Certification Card upon completion
